THE PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE.

It was well done in my predecessor of the election of Mr. BANKS, on the 133d ballot, to withdraw, and thus enable a majority to elect; and it was well done in Mr. BANKS, on the 133d ballot, to withdraw, and thus enable a majority to elect; and it was well done in my predecessor to withdraw from the Presidential contest, and thus enable the Democratic party to elect a President. But it was not well done in my predecessor to make a Message which, in the face of the country, and of the world, denied the existence of the fact that he had withdrawn from the contest, and thus enabled the Democratic party to elect a President.
